Constancy.

Two lips to ask of thee,
    All that lips may:
Two arms to welcome thee,
    Ever to stay:
One life to live for thee,
    Fair sky or grey,
One love to give to thee,
    Now, and for aye!

My heart is thine alone,
    Ever to keep;
Till, after life is done,
    Fall we on sleep.
Then, though the grave derides,
    Parts us from sight,
Even as death divides,
    Love shall unite!
